Up hill and down dale...

It's now time for some fun out in the preserve. We divide into teams and challenge each other in a triathlon. In loaded jeeps we drive out into the preserve among deer and wild boar.

The first stop is one of the terrain vehicle courses. This is not about driving the fastest but managing all the turns and obstacles while watching your step among the hubbub and din. Everybody gets a chance to drive.

Forest sauna with a dip in the creek...

We carry on out into the preserve to our camp in the wilds and continue our hunt for points with axe throwing and archery. A warm sauna before dinner could be just the thing. What do you say about a timbered wood-fired sauna with a dip in the creek to cool down? A nice cool sauna beer and genuine wilderness snacks included.

In the glow of a paraffin lamp...

Hunger must be setting in by now. We enjoy a 3-course dinner at Skogskrogen, our 18th century log cabin near the sauna. Wild Country Farm delicacies on the menu:

Whitefish Roe Kalix-style
Marinated Venison/Wild Boar
Homemade Berry Tart with Cream

Price for the Wild Farm Triathlon

Enjoy an evening to the crackling of an open fire and the glow of a paraffin lamp

A few facts about the preserve:

- Around 100 hectares
- 100 red deer and fallow deer
- 30-40 wild boar
- Forest sauna for 30-40 people
- Skogskrogen likewise
- Military preparedness camp/War-time museum
- Medicinal plants

NOTE! This is also a winter activity. The same price but twice as tough!
